

1:1 alignment coaching

High Level coaching for you as a female entrepreneur that is seeking clarity and confidence and who is ready to commit to a solution that seeks the answers within, to base your business development on your values and purpose.

To create a business that you love and that you can thrive in with clients that you love to help.

My 1:1 alignment coaching is for female entrepreneurs who desire to honour who they are and create a business that fits their values and purpose by doing what they love and do best for people they really love to work with, so that work no longer feels like draining work, but is a joyful and energizing experience.

This is a personalized coaching experience, tailored to your own individual needs and honouring your values and purpose.

I believe in meeting you where you are and coach you the way you need, so you can scale your business and develop your offer in a way that energizes you and allows you time to breathe.

I believe that making money doing what you love and are good at will give you time and resources to develop yourself and your business in a way that is sustainable to you.

For you to reach this faster (and much more simply) this requires you to be fully supported, so you can scale and develop without working more hours, and this is where my magic touch comes in.

1:1 Alignment coaching is for you if:

- You desire to indulge in the beauty of aligning your business and working strategically towards your goals.
- You're ready to work with perfect-fit clients and create the most incredible transformation and experience for them.
- You know now that you need to be fully supported by an expert so you can create a business you never dared dream of.
- (Deep down) you know money will only amplify your life, and it will create a massive ripple effect in this world
- You crave intimate, personalized, and tailor-made mentoring as you're wonderfully unique and one size fits all approaches just don't work for you
- You embrace both the energy of self-reflection and feeling yourself and the strategy elements. You know that you need both. You're more than ready to look at yourself and your patterns and make the changes needed and act in accordance with your purpose and values.
- And you're ready to truly get the support and gentle nudge that your mindset needs as this upleveling takes place...

I would love to work with you if:

- You're a human who loves to help your clients at extraordinary levels, and make the impact in the world that you know that you're meant to be making...
- You desire contributing in ways like speaking your mind in public, paving the way for other women by showing how results can be made or do something good for the world or your fellow females with your purpose.
- You've got this fire in your belly or in your heart, or this tingling sensation that you're ready to make that beautiful, remarkable impact you know you can, while making good money.

- You also know that you're meant to live - be fully alive - and this requires designing a life with plenty of space for you to live and thrive.
- Whether that is an ultra-spacious agenda so you can: spend quality time with yourself and your loved ones; have location independence, where you can take a few months off a year; or just knowing you've got this immense freedom and spaciousness around you, because that is where your greatness flourishes.
- And that you're ready to be wildly you!

Together we will activate your magic and set the stage for massive growth that feels so spacious and lavishly you!

Here are few testimonials from my clients:

Trine sees things that others miss, and she never settles for the mediocre.

I have worked with Trine Daimi for a couple of years now. Every time we work on a project it is my experience that Trine sees things in me that I have not discovered myself. Trine has helped me overcome doing something that I hate - and it is not easy to help me - because I am VERY stubborn.

And for this reason, it is sometimes a good idea to ask someone else to have a look at you and what you are doing - you NEED it.

Trine sees things that others miss, and she never settles for the mediocre.

Full of ideas! Trine is creative, innovative, and really sharp! Intelligent, outgoing, and direct.

“Motivates you to think bigger

Trine is good at helping you get to the core of your message and get your point across. One of her many talents is her ability to think BIG - to raise the glass ceiling. She motivates you to stand by your value and skills and take them to the next level. Trine offers professional advice and training, but also inspires and motivates you to think bigger and make your business sustainable financially. Karina Dahlmann – Coach “Trine made some very eye-opening points that I will surely make use of going forward.

Like Trine, I am a copywriter and so I thought it would be a healthy challenge for me to get her input about my business. After having gone through her questionnaire and a very thorough Skype session I cannot recommend her enough.

In the absence of colleagues or co-owners I found it very rewarding and luxurious being able to talk in-depth about how and why I do the things I do. I'd even go so far as saying that any one-person business should have this as an annual consultation.

Having the chance to put my daily thoughts into words and to reflect on my work process with an attentive and engaged listener made a fuller picture emerge than I have seen for some time. On top of that, Trine made some very eye-opening points that I will surely make use of going forward.

All in all, Trine manages to balance her therapist training beautifully with her experience as a business owner and strategist. So, give yourself the treat and the secret weapon of her insight - you will not regret it.

“The coaching Trine gave me was a major turning point in my life

Trine managed to enter my entrepreneurial universe, which consists of very diverse activities, and guide me to finding my true potential, the one thing that I really have a passion for - and which I had completely forgotten. With her masterly overview Trine helped me realize that my future business idea should be founded where I stand strongest. Trine has a special, empathetic gift to help you be concrete about your life mission. She is an extremely gifted acquaintance, and I am deeply grateful to have met her. I give her my warmest recommendations.

“Trine gave me to the point and competent coaching

Trine is serious and present in conversation. Not only did she think much bigger thoughts about my business than I would ever dare myself ... She inspired me to see more potential and act accordingly - and even dream about much more.

I am still discovering fields of possibilities in my thoughts and in my actions, and I know that this was not the last time that I did myself a favour and booked a coaching with Trine Daimi Kalliomäki.

I feel that Trine received me well and took my hand on the journey to the next comfort zone. I will remain here for a while - until I call Trine next time. I recommend Trine warmly.
